J. CAL. SUNDAY, FARMER, TRIES SUICIDE; WAS ILL

Fires Bullet into His Head on Monday at Baileyville.

CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

Condition Critical but Physicians Hopeful of Pulling Him Through—Despondency Over Recent Ill Health Prompted Rash Deed.

J. Calvin Sunday, a prosperous and well known young farmer of near Pine Grove Mills, attempted suicide by shooting himself just above the right ear with a revolver on Monday morning. Ill health is supposed to have prompted the act.

The shooting occurred just outside the store of Warren S. Ward, at Baileyville. The bullet plowed its way so deeply into the young man's head that it could not be located, although two physicians probed for it for some time. When found Mr. Sunday was lying unconscious on the ground, between his team of horses and the Ward store. He was carried into the store and later removed to his home. His condition is critical.

So unexpected was the shooting, and so highly was Mr. Sunday regarded by all who knew him, that the news of the attempt upon his life created a profound shock in his home community. Mr. Sunday was aged 35 years. He was of an especially happy temperament. His domestic affairs were all that could be wished for. He owned two splendid farms and was in more than comfortable circumstances. About one month ago he was seized with an attack of vertigo, collapsing nearby the barn on the farm which he occupied. It is supposed that this fact so preyed upon his mind that he decided to end it all.

That he had made up his mind in advance to shoot himself was revealed by a casual remark by the unfortunate young man just before he left home on Monday morning. At the moment no one thought anything about it, but afterward it dawned upon the family that the casual remark was fraught with the deepest significance.

On Monday morning, as was his custom, Mr. Sunday drove from his home to the Baileyville creamery. Just as he was about to depart he remarked that he wanted his overcoat, which happened to be upstairs. A member of the family volunteered to get the coat for him, but Mr. Sunday remarked:

"Never mind, I'll get it. There's something else I want to get, too."

He went upstairs and got his overcoat, and at the same time he got a 32 calibre revolver which he kept in his bedroom. Unknown to his wife or children he took the revolver with him when he started for Baileyville. After transacting some business at the Baileyville creamery Mr. Sunday drove over to Ward's store. There he made a few purchases and walked outside where his team of horses was hitched. There was nothing unusual in his manner or his actions and nobody who saw him had even the slightest reason to even suspect that he contemplated shooting himself.

Mr. Sunday's decision as to the time to fire the shot must have been an impulse of the moment. He walked to where his horses were tied and while standing between them and the store building he whipped out his revolver and sent a bullet crashing into his head. The muzzle of the revolver was held closely to his head, an inch or so above the righ ear, and had it not been that the bullet first went through his hat it would probably have passed clear through the head. He fell to the ground and when noticed by a young man who happened to be passing by was unconscious. Mr. Ward carried the unconscious form into his store, but at that time he did not realize that Mr. Sunday had been shot. He supposed that the young man had again been seized with an attack of vertigo. Blood rushing from a gaping wound in Mr. Sunday's head quickly told of the tragedy enacted, and physicians were hastily summoned. Drs. Woods and Houser immediately responded, but probing for the bullet was unsuccessful. Mr. Sunday remained in an unconscious condition on Monday and on Tuesday he began to sink rapidly, but yesterday he rallied slightly.

Sunday School Convention.

WARDEN FRANCIES HERE TODAY WITH $190,000

Owners of Prison Site Farms to Finally Get Their Money.

GET TREASURY CHECKS

Col. W. F. Reynolds Will Receive Upward of $125,000—Number of Others to be Paid $10,000 to $15,000—Expect Early Announcement of Plans.

Just imagine that when one of the trains comes into Bellefonte today from Pittsburg you were to step out, with a little satchel in your hand and that in the satchel there was a cool $190,000? How do you suppose you would feel? Or do you suppose you would be able to feel at all?

However, when one of the Pittsburg trains comes in today there will be a man step out of it, and he will have a little satchel in his hand and, what's more to the point, in the satchel there will be a cool $190,000. The man will be Warden John Francies, of the western penitentiary. The $190,000 he will bring with him is the money with which the State will formally buy the several farms and other land comprising the site for the new State prison.

Warden Francies a day or two ago sent word ahead that he would be here today with "the goods." Everybody will be glad to see him, especially the men who have agreed to sell their farms. Mr. Francies will be just as glad to see them, for once the purchase money is paid over the lands pass into the possession of the State and then everybody plans getting busy in starting work on the big prison. It is expected that before he leaves town this week, Mr. Francise will let it be known when ground will be broken for the first building, which as has been explained will be constructed by outside labor and not by convicts from Pittsburg.

Lest anybody contemplate a quick road to wealth by confiscating Mr. Francies' satchel before the land owners are paid off it should be explained that the satchel will not contain a penny in currency. The $190,000 will be made up in State Treasury checks. Each check is already made out in the name for whom it is intended. All told, there will be exactly twenty-one checks. The largest will be that for Colonel W. Fred Reynolds, which will run far beyond the $100,000 mark. Quite a few checks will be for amounts ranging from $10,000 to $15,000, while one or two will be for just a few hundred dollars.

Death of H. C. Valentine, Jr.

Henry Clay Valentine, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Valentine, who was born on January 18th., 1893, on Easter Monday, April the 18th, 1912, passed over the bridge of death to the life of the world beyond. "The eternal fitness of things" attended his going. It was in the Easter season, when the note of the new life was running through Nature and song. Harry had already overcome death in soul, and yielding only his body to the claims of Nature, followed the Savior's footsteps into the light that fadeth not away. Although so young, the word of God and childlike prayer had revealed to him the Father's love which took away the sting of death and fitted him for "the inheritance of the Saints in light." Nor was it hid from those about him. In the home it was the pivot of purpose for every member of the family, as in the outside world to every companion it was a token of rectitude which commanded respect. The ravages of a fatal malady never caused him alarm. On the other hand he regarded them calmly as the lexicon of nature for the translation of life and as the laboratory of suffering in which patience does her perfect work. He had a blessed going because it was so well prepared for and because it removed a handicap in time from which he longed to be released.

Farmer for Poor Farm.

Perry Wolleslagle, of Unionville, has been engaged by William Wood and Thomas R. Dubbs, overseers of the poor, to take charge of Rush township's new poor farm, at Cold Stream. He will assume charge April 15. Mr. Wolleslagle is a practical farmer and will locate on the farm with his wife and child.

Suspect Dynamiting Stream.

A 17½ inch dead trout found floating near the head of Cold Stream dam, near Philipsburg last Friday, has aroused suspicion that dynamiting has been done in that section. State fish wardens are investigating.

Trout season opens next Monday, April 15th.

Keynote In Congressional Contest

Shall Second Term Principle Prevail?

Primaries, Saturday April 13, 1912. Polls open in each election district from 2 to 8 P. M.

The Republicans of Centre County are to be commended for their refusal to accord encouragement to the game being played by a few disgruntled ex-officeholders to promote factional warfare in the party. Some well meaning Republicans have been led astray by misrepresentation. The great rank and file of the Republican party, however, well understand the situation and are refusing to be used to help a few work out a personal grievance. All honor to them.

On the eve of the primaries every Republican voter should keep before him the true facts, for the facts are the best answer to the false reasoning of those who are trying to prevent the renomination of Congressman Patton. Aside from purely local troubles, in which the Republicans throughout the county are not interested, Mr. Patton is entitled to and deserves a renomination. Precedent and the general welfare of this or any other congressional district calls for the re-election of a worthy representative to a second term at Washington. Any citizen who gives the matter a moment's thought and earnest consideration can well see the absurdity of electing a new congressman every two years. The result would be that the district, and every county comprising it, would suffer. The Twenty-first district, of which Centre County is a part, has too much at stake, has too many interests involved in legislation at Washington, to warrant anybody putting out the theory that no harm can come from changing representatives every two years. We submit to the best judgment of our citizens that no man can be elected to Congress and in his first term familiarize himself with the many and diversified business interests in his district, learn how the same may or may not be affected by pending legislation, and obtain a grasp on matters in general to enable him to accomplish the best results for those most concerned. A congressman is always able to do his best, is always able to accomplish the most, after he has served through one term. To retire him just when he is best prepared to serve the business interests and the people of his district would be not only an injustice to the congressman but an injustice to the district. It was a broad-minded recognition of this all-important fact that prompted the establishing of the second-term principle. The fact that the principle has been adhered to up until the present time is evidence that it has proved to be the best for all concerned. Is it reasonable to ask the thousands of people living in a district to do that which is at best an experiment, and a dangerous one at that, simply that a few disgruntled politicians may satisfy a personal grudge? The business man, the farmer and the workingman has too much at stake to allow his interests to be kicked about to please a little clique of selfish promoters.

Congressman Patton, let it be plain, is being opposed by a few factionalists because he included in his appointments that of an old Civil war soldier in Bellefonte. Reverence for the battle-scarred flag, if nothing else, should prompt those opposing Mr. Patton in Bellefonte to accord him their hearty, loyal support. The great majority of the people of Bellefonte approve of Mr. Patton's appointments here. This alone should silence his few critics. The fact that the few fighting him are not willing to submit to the wishes of the majority would seem to suggest, at least, that they are not in sympathy with the desires and wishes of the majority.

Mr. Patton has made but two appointments in Bellefonte. One was that of an old soldier, who has since been called into the Great Beyond. The other appointment was that of a man who has been a loyal, staunch active Republican during his entire life time. No man can truthfully say that both appointments were not made in response to an overwhelming sentiment in Bellefonte, which was the community directly concerned and vitally affected. It is because Mr. Patton did that which he believed the great majority of the people of Bellefonte wanted done that he is now being opposed for renomination. If serving an over-whelming majority rather than a few in a community is a fault, then Mr. Patton must plead guilty. The issue in question is one which might be submitted to the people of Bellefonte at any time and the result not be in doubt even before the votes are counted.

Mr. Patton, in asking the Republicans of Centre County for their support at the primaries on Saturday, is merely asking that which was accorded his predecessor, Mr. Barclay. In asking that he be accorded a renomination Mr. Patton merely asks that which was gracefully and freely given Mr. Barclay. In asking that he be renominated and re-elected Mr. Patton merely asks Centre County Republicans to co-operate in continuing the second-term principle. Mr. Patton is not in sympathy with factionalism. As every loyal Republican knows, Mr. Patton appreciates that factionalism means a disrupted party, and with a disrupted party no one can be elected next November. Mr. Patton is not involved or concerned in the petty squabbles among a few Bellefonte politicians. He stands upon the higher and broader principle of party harmony and progress for this congressional district. We believe that next Saturday's primaries will show that the rank and file of the Republicans in Centre County are opposed to factionalism and are standing shoulder to shoulder with Mr. Patton and the principles which he represents.

Mr. DeHaas Fails to File Campaign Expense Accounts.

Under a strict interpretation of the federal law governing the filing of political expense accounts Congressman Patton is the only Republican candidate for Congress now before the people of this district. According to Washington despatches in Philadelphia and Pittsburg newspapers, Mr. Patton complied with the law requiring the filing of expense accounts ten days before the primaries. The same despatches give the name of William T. DeHaas, of Clearfield, as among the few congressional candidates who failed to file an account.

The penalty for failure of congressional candidates to file campaign expense accounts is $1000 fine and one year's imprisonment. Congress, alone, can relieve those violating the law from being declared in contempt and having sentence imposed.

Just what were Mr. DeHaas' reasons for not filing his campaign expense account with the clerk of the House, at Washington, we are not prepared to say, because we do not know. Our only information on the subject is that which comes from Washington, and which is merely a true recital of the facts.

SUFFRAGETTES QUIZZING LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES

Want to Know if Aspirants for House Favor Votes for Women.

ALL DODGERS WARNED

Candidates Notified that Failure to Reply to Questions Would be Accepted as Declaration Against Giving Women Right to Vote.

The suffragettes are on the trail of the candidates for the Legislature in Centre County. No favorites are being played. The candidates of all parties have been placed on the rack and bluntly called on to say how they view the woman's suffrage question and how, if nominated and elected, they will vote at Harrisburg.

Letters calling on the Centre County candidates to get out into the open and declare themselves were mailed by the Pennsylvania Woman's Suffrage Association, which has State headquarters in Philadelphia. Right off the bat the letters state that it is desired that the candidates say what they think about giving women the right to vote. Another equally blunt one is the direct statement that the suffragettes have "champions in all the political parties," and that they are interested in the election of legislators who will represent the whole people. Lest any unsophisticated legislator misunderstand this, it is explained that by the "whole people" the suffragettes "mean men and women." Both the words "men" and "women" are heavily underscored. Listen to just a few of the planks in the platform of the suffragettes as set forth in the letter to the candidates:

"There is no argument for the political, industrial and social freedom of men that does not apply with equal force to women."

"If you believe that as human beings women should have an equal opportunity with men to make an honest living (and, under the stress of modern industrialism one woman out of every five must be a wage-earner); that taxation without representation is tyranny (and, women are taxed for the support of the government and for the pay of officeholders); that a just government rests on the consent of the governed (and women are governed); if you believe these maxims are true, then must you not believe that women have a clear title to voice their opinions equally with men."

So much for the platform. Immediately following the foregoing declaration of principles the suffragettes toss this direct question to the candidates:

"If elected, would you support a bill in the Legislature providing for the referendum for a constitutional amendment granting full suffrage to women upon the same terms upon which it is now given to men?"

Lest any candidate hope to escape going on record by conveniently forgetting to reply, the letter of the suffragettes concludes with this pointed notice:

"A failure to reply will be interpreted as meaning that you are opposed to the cause of 'Votes for Women.'"

The letter is signed by Lida Stokes Adams, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the association.

It is said that each and every legislative candidate in Centre County wrote to the suffragettes promising to go the limit at Harrisburg.

Admitted for treatment—Mrs. Della Keeler, Bellefonte;

Discharged—George Zerby, Tusseyville; Anna Parker, Potters Bank.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wade Cruse, Bellefonte.

30 patients now in the hospital.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Dead.

Robert W. Matthews, secretary of the Lock Haven Y. M. C. A., died in the hospital in that town on Monday evening from peritonitis. He had been ill but a short time, peritonitis following an operation for appendicitis.

A vote for Patton for Congress on Saturday means that you favor party harmony and not factional discord.

DRIVER AND TEAM DROP INTO FISHING CREEK

Old Wooden Bridge Near Mackeyville Gave Way Under Strain.

TRAIN CREW TO RESCUE

While Driving Across Stream James E. Furst Falls 12 Feet Into Water—Has Narrow Escape—Central Railroad Men Helped Rescue Horses.

While James E. Furst was driving a heavily laden farm wagon over the old wooden bridge across Fishing Creek, above Mackeyville, on Tuesday morning, the structure gave way. Mr. Furst and his horses and wagon dropped a distance of about twelve feet and landed in the creek.

Mr. Furst had some difficulty in extricating himself from the wreckage and succeeded in reaching shore. A Central Railroad of Pennsylvania crew happened to witness the accident and hastened to the scene. The railroad men aided in rescuing the horses from the creek.

Mr. Furst was rather painfully bruised and scratched, but sustained no fractured bones. His horses also escaped without any serious injury.

Court Rules on Ballot Stickers.

A case stated submitted to Judge Orvis for a ruling on Tuesday provided for a mandamus on the Board of County Commissioners which would compel them to have printed and furnish with the ballots in each election district "stickers" containing the name of George L. Goodhart, of Centre Hall, as a Democratic candidate for State delegate. Judge Orvis ruled that the commissioners need not furnish and distribute "stickers." Mr. Goodhart was put up by the Democratic reorganizers faction as their candidate for State delegate after Irvin J. Dreese, of Lemont, withdrew. The Dreese withdrawal was filed too late for Mr. Goodhart's name to be printed on the primary ballot.

Roosevelt Carries Illinois.

At the primaries held in Illinois on Tuesday Roosevelt captured a majority of the delegates over Taft. Roosevelt won in Chicago by 30,000 plurality.

At the same primaries Champ Clark carried Illinois over Woodrow Wilson as the choice of the Democrats for President by a vote of about two to one.

Of four delegates to the Chicago convention elected in Vermont on Tuesday two are for Taft and two for Roosevelt.

Roosevelt this week made a tour through Pennsylvania, speaking in Pittsburg on Tuesday and in Philadelphia last night. He speaks tonight in Scranton.

Congressman Patton Here.

Congressman Charles E. Patton was in Bellefonte for a few hours on Tuesday. While here he said that advices received from every county comprising the Twenty-first congressional district gave him every reason to feel absolutely confident of his renomination at the primaries on Saturday. Regarding local factional contests Congressman Patton said that he was taking no part in them and that he was anxious and desirous only of seeing the party united and complete harmony restored for the general good of the entire Republican ticket next November.

Captured Live Swan.

James Barry last Friday captured a large and beautiful white swan in the yard of his home at Sandy Ridge. The Swan was run down by Mr. Barry's dog. The swan was shipped to Philipsburg, where it will be mounted.

Two Turkeys Cost $30.54.

Brinton Hall, of Unionville, was given a hearing in Bellefonte last Saturday and fined for shooting two wild turkeys on November 2nd. of last year. The fine and costs amounted to $30.54.

Asks License Transfer.

Application has been filed in the Centre County court for the transfer of the liquor license of the Passmore House, in Philipsburg, to Albert Fasshauer.

Here's Another "Open Letter."

EDITOR OF THE REPUBLICAN:—
Dear Sir:-

Last week the Keystone Gazette published a letter signed by George Robb in which he stated that I had written to Congressman Patton asking for the appointment as Postmaster at Bellefonte. This is absolutely untrue, as I never wrote to Mr. Patton, in regard to the Bellefonte postoffice.

Mr. Patton is one of the best friends the soldier has in Washington and he is entitled to the support of every veteran in Centre County.

Yours very truly,
HERMAN K. MILLER.

FIND COIN MOLDS

Plaster Paris Casts Turn up in Wall of Dead Man's Home.

In Snyder county there was considerable stir created when there was brought into Middleburg some plaster of paris molds which had been used for making spurious coin of the realm.

Jacob D. Shaffer, who recently bought at public sale the house of William P. Seigfreid, of Shadel, Snyder county, moved into the building several days ago, and it was in this building that the counterfeit molds were found.

After being in use for a short while, and during a cleaning-up expedition in the cellar, Mrs. Shaffer found a cigar box secreted on the cellar wall, in which she found a full set of plaster of paris molds, for making quarters, half dollars, dimes, nickles, and five dollar gold pieces.

They were taken to Middleburg and deposited in the First National bank vaults for the use of the officials of the U. S. treasury, who were notified of the find.

Mr. Seigfreid, the former owner of the house, died last October in Mifflinburg. He left a will in which C. H. Graybill, of Buckwheat Valley, was named as executor. Mr. Graybill now states, according to the Middleburg Post, that during the illness of Mr. Seigfreid in Mifflinburg, the latter wrote a letter asking Mr. Graybill to destroy the contents of a certain box in the house, but Mr. Graybill was never able to discover what was meant, and now it is supposed that he intended the molds that were discovered a few days ago by Mrs. Shaffer.

It is not known whether Seigfreid manufactured any spurious coin or not, but some of the neighbors have spurious coin corresponding to the dates in the molds, which would indicate that at least some counterfeit money was made from the molds in question.

As Mr. Seigfreid is dead and suspicion rests on no one living there is probably nothing for Uncle Sam to do but to destroy the molds.

A Sample Party.

This is certainly a most amusing affair and will repay a hostess for the trouble of arranging for it. But then to be a successfull hostess the labor that precedes an event should never enter into the calculations. There must be an equal number of men and women—eight couples make a party easily provided for.

In the invitations to the girls the hostess requests a sample of the gown which they will wear, and to the men the missives request a sample of the necktie, these to be sent in advance to the hostess. The samples are neatly mounted on "sample" cards and the neckties passed to the girls, the dress materials to the men. In this way partners are found for the progressive conversation which will be passed, and the men are to write descriptions of the gown the samples of which fell to their lot, and the girls are to write about the ties, material, style, etc. Five minutes will be given to these descriptions, and then the papers will be read aloud. The prizes are to be sample packages of any product the hostess may select.

The refreshments are to be novel, inasmuch as the hostess will have the tea and coffee made by a "demonstrator" (one of the party who has been previously asked to do it,) and the other things are to be served in boxes marked "samples." There will be sandwiches of various kinds, olives, salad, small cake, etc. The contents of the boxes will be spread upon the table, which is to be supplied with all the requisites in the way of dishes.

While at the table the room is to be suddenly darkened and little saucers containing a mixture of chopped nuts, candies and crackers are to be passed and eaten. When the lights are turned on each one is to write down what he has had, the one nearest correct being given a "sample" cake of chocolate.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since."—A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Tex.

Wife Kissed Him too Much.

Too much display of affection by Mrs. John Reckinger toward her husband, brought the couple into the Court of Domestic Relations in Chicago last week.

Reckinger told Judge Goodenow that his wife was not content to caress him and listen to his repeated declarations of love at home, but followed him to his office.

Not only did she interfere with his business, but her continued display of affection became very tiresome to him, he said, so he left her and their two children. Mrs. Reckinger asked that her husband be forced to return home.

"All I can do," said Judge Goodenow, "is to see that he provides for your support and that of the children. No wife ought to interfere with her husband's business by following him around. On the other hand a husband ought to jolly his wife as much as possible."

J. C. English, 212 Jefferson St., Williamsport, Pa., says "Some months ago I had an attack of kidney trouble. My back ached and I felt very miserable. FATHER OF THE HOUSE

The Title Now Belongs to Congressman Dalzell, of Pittsburgh.

The title of "Father of the House," held so many years by Congressman Bingham descends on another Pennsylvanian, Representative John Dalzell, of Pittsburgh, a recognized authority on tariff, who is now engaged in a hard battle for renomination.

The death of General Bingham removes from the scenes of the House of Representatives the member longest in continuous service. Ex-Speaker Cannon, but for one unhappy expression in a speech in the 51st Congress, which resulted in his defeat at the polls the following fall, would have to his credit 39 years of continuous service, he having entered Congress six years earlier than General Bingham.

Sereno E. Payne, former chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and floor leader of the Republicans, would succeed General Bingham to the title except for a gap in his long career in the House running from the 48th Congress. He was not re-elected to the 50th session.

Representative Dalzell has served through thirteen sessions of Congress, having entered the House with the 50th Congress. Next to him in regard to longevity of service comes Jones, of Virginia; Bartholdt, of Missouri; Cooper, of Wisconsin; Gardner, of New Jersey, and McCall, of Massachusetts.

The Democrat oldest in point of continuous service after Mr. Jones, of Virginia, is Judge Bartlett, of Georgia. J. Fred Talbot, of Maryland, however, was accorded the honor of acting as father to the House on the occasion of the swearing in of Champ Clark as Speaker. Talbot entered the 46th Congress at the same time with General Bingham, but for ten years he stayed at home, during the 49th, 50th and 51st Congresses.

The most remarkable fact in regard to longevity of service in the Pennsylvania delegation in the House is that of Judge Kelly who was father of the House for nearly 20 years, and following him Charles O'Neill, of the Second Pennsylvania district in Pennsylvania, succeeded to the title, which he relinquished at his death to General A. C. Harmer, of the 5th district. The distinction then passed to Gen. John H. Ketcham, of New York, and at his death General Bingham received the honor.

Should Examine Summer Clothing.

Now is the time when the housewives will do well to take down their packing boxes, open the old chests and get in readiness the linens and light wool dresses for spring wear.

One of the first necessities is the airing that must be given the flannels and [illegible] everything that contains wool or [illegible] is worn in the spring and summer.

Then take out the tub gowns and see that they are cleansed perfectly and are convenient to wear when they are needed.

The colored ginghams may be beautifully laundered without fading if they are not put in boiling water.

Prepare the water with salt and make a suds, so the soap need not be applied to the material

This does not require much rubbing either. If the goods are rolled gently between the palms the soil will come out easily.

Then rinse in good, clear water, in which there is a handful of salt.

Do not hang in the sun, as this fades the material quickly. Your dimities should be laundered in the same manner, but never rubbed on a board, as it is sure to tear them, and fine clothing must be carefully handled if it is to last any length of time.

Gum arabic is used in the water for stiffening dimities and organdies. This makes them appear as when new, with the natural dressing.

A Mother's Care.

A careful mother will not give her child a medicine without knowing it is pure, contains no opiates and has healing and curative qualities. Such a medicine is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat, chest, and lungs. Best and safest for children and grown persons. Y. M. C. A. Raised $27,000.

The three day campaign to raise money for the purpose of enlarging and equipping the building of the Young Men's Christian Association building in Tyrone last week resulted even better than the most optomistic dared hope. The effort was made to raise $25,000 in the three days, but it was found that the committee had secured $27,108.50. The interest was intense and the desired result was eagerly worked for.

President Lincoln Assassinated Forty-seven Years Ago.

Forty-seven years ago on Sunday next, April 14th., President Lincoln was assassinated while attending the theatre in Washington. One by one those of the older generations who lived through the exciting period of Civil war days are passing away. In a more or less general way the cruel murder of Lincoln is known to every man, woman and child in the land, but the details of that great national tragedy are naturally best known by and impressed upon the minds of those now well on in years and of whom, it may truthfully be said, that they have lived in and become a part of two generations.

Lying before us on our desk as we write is an old newspaper which would not only awaken a wealth of recollections for any Civil war veteran, but also prove intensely interesting to those younger in years and who know of the assassination of Lincoln only from a casual reading of histories or magazines. The newspaper is a copy of "The Philadelphia Inquirer," of date of April 18, 1865. Compared with the "Philadelphia Inquirer" of today the old copy of forty-seven years ago merely accentuates the growth and development which have made the Inquirer of today one of the largest, newsiest and best edited journals in the world. The style of the first page heading of the Inquirer of Civil war days differs little from that used today, but otherwise the changed appearence is striking. The Inquirer in 1865 was a little sheet of eight pages, rather short and five columns wide. The pages were uncut and all the type used was very small, being of the size now used in publishing legal advertisements.

"The Nation Mourns its Loss," is a headline running across the top of the old copy of the Inquirer on our desk. Virtually the entire paper is given over to despatches telling of Lincoln's assassination by Booth, the actor, the chase for the murderer, funeral arrangements, etc. As a symbol of mourning every column rule in the newspaper is printed with the oase, or heavy side up. A display heading leading the first page, announced: "The Great Tragedy!" Previous despatches had already told of the shooting. Those in the issue of the Inquirer on April 18th., four days following the tragedy, treat principally with the details which come to light following the first flush of excitement in Washington. Chief of these despatches is one describing incidents and events of the day of the shooting. It in part follows:

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865

Every hour passing goes to prove that the assassination of President Lincoln and Cabinet originated with the Knights of the Golden Circle, the same [illegible] did design at fall to [illegible] the great West by murdering the Governors of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, &c.

On Friday last Booth was about the National Hotel as usual, and strolled up and down the avenue several times.

During one of his strolls he stopped at the Kirkwood House, and sent in to Vice President Johnson a card upon which was written—

"I do not wish to disturb you. Are you in? J. WILKES BOOTH."

A gentleman of Booth's acquaintance at this time met him in front of the Kirkwood House, and in the conversation which followed made some allusion to Booth's business, and in a jesting way asked, "What made him so gloomy? Had he lost another thousand in oil?" Booth replied that he had lost considerably by the freshet; that he was about to leave Washington, never to return.

At seven o'clock on Friday evening he came from his room at the National, and was spoken to by several concerning his paleness, which he said proceeded from indisposition. Just before leaving he asked the clerk if he was not going to Ford's theatre, and added, "There will be some very fine acting there to-night." Mr. Lessford, the ticket agent at the theatre, noticed Booth as he passed in, and shortly after the latter entered the restaurant next to the theatre, and in a hurried manner called for "Brandy, brandy, brandy," rapping at the same time on the bar. Judge Carter and a Mr. Ferguson saw Booth loitering about the entrance to the President's box, and just previous to the fatal shot lost sight of him.

Long ago they determined to Kill Mr. Lincoln, but from want of opportunity or supposed policy the deed was postponed until Friday night last. Booth was evidently chosen to effect the terrible crime.

For two months he has appeared to be greatly occupied with something, something that weighed heavily upon his mind, and of so large a magnitude that he would not disclose it to his most importunate and intimate friends. Among his companions he was often silent, and when talking frequently absent-minded and wandering. The hideous crime he had in comtemplation and which he had sworn to accomplish, was the cause.

The fourth of March was fixed originally for the assassination, and Booth was on the ground, but either through fear of not being able to effect his escape or because of the failure of his accomplice to meet him at that time, the attempt was not made.

He is now known to have waited for the President on that day, on the embankment near the north wing of the Capitol, close to which Mr. Lincoln would pass.

He was dressed shabbily in a slouchy suit, his pantaloons crammed into his boots, and an old felt hat pulled down over his face. One of his acquaintances passing, hailed him, but Booth pretended not to hear and refused to speak until closely approached.

When the President passed him he hurried away, evidently disappointed, and through the day was gruff and moody to all who addressed him. Being a coward, he hesitated to strike the blow then, since he knew that he would have instantly been torn to pieces by the thousands present to witness Mr. Lincoln's inauguration. The more investigation pries into the murder the more dastardly it appears. It was as cool and deliberate an assassination as the world ever knew.

During Friday Booth had visited Ford's theatre and examined carefully the position of the box, and ascertained precisely how he should enter and escape from it when his purpose was accomplished.

Behind the door of the passage a hole had been made in the wall, in which, at night, Booth inserted the end of a board, as a brace against the door, thereby precluded any one from following from the dress circle. The screws were next removed from the lock of the further door, opening into the double box. The thread of the screw-holes was broken and the lock and screws replaced, so that should the inmates of the box fasten the door by which they entered, the other door might be easily pushed open.

Judge Olin and others visited the theatre, and satisfied themselves by actual experiment, that the door ostensibly locked could thus be pushed in with the greatest ease. The aperture in the panel of the door, which was thought to have been a bullet hole, and thus formed a contradictory feature in the chain of evidence, it now appears was made with a knife, and was designed to enable the assassin to survey the position of the occupants of the box previous to entering himself.

The large arm chair always used by the President at the theatre, had been removed from its usual position, thereby enabling the murderer to carry out his design more readily, as he passed through the box. A pocket knife, the one probably with which the hole was cut in the door, was found lying on the cushion of the balustrade when Mr. Lincoln's party entered the box. Most of this work must have been done previously by the assassin or by some confederate knowing the premises, probably during some portion of the day when the theatre or that part of it is unoccupied. It would appear, too from the ease with which the somewhat difficult jump and rebound was made, a leap forward and obliquely to right, that it had been practiced previously, at some favorable opportunity, by the assassin.

History does not record a more willful, deep studied plan to take the life of a ruler than that so faithfully executed by Booth on Friday night. His preparations for flight were equally well made, and the failure yet to capture him shows how certain he was of escape when he committed the crime. The rewards offered for the arrest of the assassins reach thirty thousand dollars. They should be one hundred thousand dollars. Philadelphia and New York should each offer a reward of twenty-five thousand dollars, and Baltimore and Boston should make up the other twenty thousand dollars. Such a sum of money would tempt any man who might be called upon to harbor and aid the villains, and they would soon be surrendered to the hands of justice.

The coffin in which the late President is to be buried is a magnificent affair indeed, costing above one thousand dollars. It is of mahogany, lined with lead, and covered of the finest black cloth.

The outside of the coffin is festooned with massive silver tacks, representing drapery, in each fold of which is a silver star. There are eight massive handles to the coffin, being placed on each side; the outer edges of the coffin are tastefully gilded with silver braid, to which are attached three tassels of five inches each in length.

A row of silver tacks encircle the entire top of the coffin, being placed two inches from the outer edge, while a silver plate, encircled by a shield formed of tacks of tacks of the same material, occupies a central position on the top of the lid with a star at the head and foot of the coffin on the outside.

The inside of the face of the lid is lined with white satin, the centre piece being trimmed with black and white silk braid, fastened down with sixteen silver stars, four to each corner. The face, lid and top of the coffin is fastened together with five silver stars. The inside of the coffin is superbly lined with box, plaited with satin, the bottom and pillow being of finest white silk, white rich three-inch chenille satin fringe encircles the entire inside.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Bellefonte Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are over taxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, weariness, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, Bright's disease follow.

A Bellefonte citizen tells here a reliable remedy for kidney ills.

Mrs. L. Ingram, 382 E. Bishop St., Bellefonte, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have done me a world of good and I feel that I cannot speak too highly of them. I suffered intensely from backache and my kidneys gave me a deal of of annoyance. Nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Green's Pharmacy Co. In return for the improvement they made I publicly recommended them in October 1907, and at this time I can say that I have had no further from my kidneys. You are welcome to use my name as one who recommends Doan's Kidney Pills highly from personal experience."

Gov. Tener Against Gambling.

Baseball in Pennsylvania is to be freed from the growing abuse of betting, which in some cities is almost like the pool selling which brought racing into disrepute, if the influence of the state administration upon county and local authorities can bring it about.

Governor John K. Tener, who has been a lover of the game since boyhood and who goes to a big game every time he gets a chance, believes the time has come when an organized effort should be made in every part of the United States to stamp out the gambling that many fear will destroy in time the popular interest in the national game.

The governor thinks that state laws offer ample authority for the suppression of such betting if officials will only act as strictly as do the officers inside of the baseball grounds. If there is not the governor will favor and urge a bill to remedy any defects to be found in the statutes and to make stringent penalties apply to pool selling on baseball as well as they do on racing.

"Baseball," says the governor, "has won its great place in the affections of the American people because it has been clean. I hope it will stay so. I would be mighty sorry to see it fail and I sincerely hope those who can will help stamp out betting on the games. It is the greatest danger baseball has today."

Pennsylvania, in the minds of men of every country who come here, is one of the greatest baseball states in the union in the general love of the sport, and it is a matter of common knowledge that it has begun to suffer from widespread betting which, if unchecked, will bring about the same disapprobation of baseball as is attached to racing in the minds of many people. It is the belief of the governor, who in the very first months of his administration drove from his office men who came to sound him about the chances of getting through racing and pool selling bills during his term of office, that gambling on games, scores or innings should be discouraged by true lovers of the game and that officials should lend the aid of the law.

Mrs. C. Brothers of McKeesport, Pa., tells how Foley Kidney Pills cured her daughter. "For some time my daughter had a serious disorder of the kidneys and found in Foley Kidney Pills speedy relief and later a complete cure. The use of Foley Kidney Pills did for her in a short time all that is claimed they will do and I can highly recommend them." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Bradstreet's Crop Report.

Unfavorable weather—snow on and frost in the ground in the north and excessive rains throughout most of the south—delays crop preparation and planting. Reports of bad roads are well-nigh universal, and warm, dry, growing weather is now urgently needed if the crops are to have a good start. Fall-sown crops in the north and in the southwest, especially Texas, have been benefited by snow covering or rains, but good reports as to winter wheat west of the Mississippi are partly balanced by poor reports from sections east of that river. Texas wheat and oats promise well. The western oats growing states need good weather for plowing, and the area may be restricted if the delay continues. Ohio reports as to wheat are rather poor. In the Pacific northwest wheat-crop reports are good, as they are also in Kansas and Missouri. There are also reports of much defective corn seed. At the south very little crop preparation has been possible owing to a recurrence of heavy rains. Still, much lost ground may be recovered if good weather arrives soon. Fertilizer shipments and sales have been interfered with at the south.

H. B. Creep, 59 No. 18th St., Harrisburg, Pa., says "Sometime ago I had occasion to use Foley Kidney Pills for my kidneys which were unhealthy and very irregular in action. Now after taking Foley Kidney Pills for a short time only, I have no pains whatever and the kidneys are acting properly and regularly. This was brought about by the use of Foley Kidney Pills which I heartily recommend." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

A College Professor Plans Fasting Thirty Days.

A professional faster is coming to the United States and will abstain from food for thirty days in the interest of science Professor G. Benedict, of the Nutrition Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution, at Boston, made this announcement at the semi-annual conversational meeting of the Pathological Society of Philadelphia in the College of Physicians.

The man who goes hungry from choice and not from necessity hails from the island of Malta. His name is August Levanzin and he was recommended to Dr. Benedict by an eminent foreign physician. Steps were taken at once to engage him as a subject in the series of experiments at the Nutrition Laboratory, a number of which were described in the lecture of Dr. Benedict.

"If this fellow is able to stand the gaff," remarked Dr. Benedict, "we will be able to obtain a great amount of valuable scientific data which we have been without up to this time. Levanzin will be under observation practically every minute of the thirty days that he goes without food, and the results of his fast in every detail will be noted and recorded with the greatest minuteness. We hope that the experiment will prove an important contribution to this particular phase of medical science."

Pictures were thrown on a screen showing the Italian in a robust condition and also emaciated from a period of abstinence from food. Reference to his expected coming was made at the close of an address by Dr. Benedict in description of elaborate and finely-perfected methods employed at a Nutrition Laboratory in the determination of the effects of certain food upon the human system, the effect of certain defects in the process of food assimilation and the variety of physical results produced by muscular or mental effort.

He explained and illustrated by means of steroptican slides a delicately-adjusted apparatus which registers with unwavering accuracy the quantity of carbonic gas sent off in a stated time through the respiration of a human being or animal and also the amount of oxygen consumed in the same time.

Figures obtained while the subject is in a quirscent state may be compared with others obtained at the time of muscular effort. The calorimeter, used in the Nutrition Laboratory to determine the heat units given off by bodies under varying conditions, also was explained.

Tobacco Experiment Farm.

The agricultural experimenting station at State College in conjunction with the department of agriculture of the United States will this spring establish an experimental station for growing tobacco on the farm of Mrs. Annie Dunn, on the island, two miles east of Lock Haven which will be in charge of two experts—one representing the state and the other the national government.

An acre of ground has been leased from the Dunn estate, and it is contemplated to continue the work of experimenting with different grades of tobacco and making observations, with a view of attaining the best possible results for some years to come.

The effect of different fertillzers on the various varieties of tobacco will be noted, some rows will be topped earlier than others, and some stalks will be planted farther apart than has been the custom, new varieties of leaf will be brought forth by combining some of the most popular kinds of tobacco grown at present, and the experiments will, in fact, cover a wide field, and several years will elapse before some of the results attained can be definitely reported.

This recognition of the tobacco growing industry of the Clinton and Lycoming county district by both the national and state governments, will mean much for the growers of the weed in that section, as hereafter that field will be officially recognized as a prolific tobacco growing section, as is Lancaster county and portions of Connecticut.

The experiments to be conducted in the heart of the tobacco growing district of the West Branch valley will be watched with interest, not only by the members of the Clinton County Tobacco Growers' Association, but by tillers of the soil, and dealers in tobacco generally.

Co-eds Out Roughing It.

Garbed in fetching khaki costumes of blouses and short skirts, neat high walking shoes, etc., some of the co-eds of the graduate geological department of Columbia University were in Bellefonte last Thursday night. They had spent the day in the mountains near Pleasant Gap, stopping over here for the night. Following the day's jaunt, a class meeting and lecture was held at the Bush House. Fifteen comprised the party, which was in charge of Prof. A. W. Grabaugh.

The travelers carried business-like looking knapsacks, and a goodly portion of the baggage was composed of bits of rocks and other geological specimens.

The party left New York city Wednesday morning for Bellefonte, going to Harrisburg, after studying geological formations near here. In the party were Prof. Grabaugh, M. J. Goldsman, R. Christenson, F. Hintz, G. Friedman, Dr. F. Hahn, M. Bruce, J. Taylor, Charles Mook, Mrs. P. J. O'Connell and Miss M. O'Connell.

Veteran Telegrapher Dead.

Cortland Cunningham, one of the oldest telegraphers in the service of the Western Union Telegraph company, died in Brooklyn last Friday of heart disease. He was a veteran of the Civil war and served in the signal corps of the Union army. While employed in tapping wires in the campaign proceding the battle of Gettsburg Cunningham is said to have intercepted a message from the confederate goverment ordering General Robert E. Lee to make an invasion of the north. Cunningham at once turned the message over to the federal authorities with the result that General Meade was ordered to intercept Lee. The battle of Gettysburg followed and Lee's plan of invasion was thwarted.

Pruning Dead Branches.

A correspondent from the eastern part of Pennsylvania sent to State Zoologist H. A. Surface, at Harrisburg, some dead branches of trees, and asked for instructions as to what to do for his orchard. The reply to the letter, which is of general interest, was as follows:

"The only thing to do is to cut the dead or dying parts and try to reshape the tree the best way that is possible afterward. It is, of course, difficult to tell the real cause of this trouble, which may be plant diseases. The wood must be cut out further back than the blight infection. Burn the twigs and branches that were cut off, being, of course, sure to get them far enough away from all live trees that that the heat will not cause injury. Sterlize the saw and other pruning implements by wiping them between cuts with a cloth dipped in kerosene or turpentine.

"In pruning a tree of which the branches are dying the only thing to do is to cut out all dead and dying parts, being sure to cut back into the living wood, and if possible make the cut just above the outer living branch, so that there will be something left to maintain the growth and cause it to heal over readily. If there are any short shoots, twigs, spurs or water sprouts on the tree be sure to save them and let them grow. Cut out the upper branches if the tree is growing too high, even though they are alive. This will force shoots to the lower parts, which can be selected later to form the lower branches. As a rule it scarcely pays to attempt much operation on old trees that are dying. In many cases it is important to spray them, and for this purpose I recommend the lime-sulfur solution during the dormant season, made according to the directions furnished from the office of the Economic Zoologist, at Harrisburg.

"Together with the stimulation from pruning go the necessity of fertilizing the trees, cultivating or mulching them and otherwise caring for them. No one horticultural practice is sufficient, as a rule, to put a tree in proper condition."

Whitewashing Trees.

Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pennsylvania, at Harrisburg, receives many inquires on the subject of whitewashing trees, and takes this occasion to issue a general reply, which is as follows:

"As far as the destruction of pests is concerned there is a slight benefit from whitewashing the trunks of trees. However, this does not kill the pest that are not touched by the whitewash and thus those on the branches above the whitewashed area are uninjured. Also, it does not kill the borers that are within the trees, although if applied regularly as a good thick coat, about the middle of June, July and August, each year it will keep the borers out.

"From the standpoint of appearance it is not commendable, as the trees in their natural condition and beauty are much more attractive than those that are white washed to look like painted posts Persons who love Nature are outraged in their finer sensibilities upon seeing natural objects like stones and trees whitewashed, painted or otherwise discolored.

"White washing gives a little benefit, it is certain that it pays far better to boil a little sulfur with the lime, and instead of making a regular whitewash, make the lime-sulfur solution with the sediment present, and apply this either with a brush or with a spray pump. It is not troublesome to boil some sulfur with the lime, and thus make the material an undoubted insecticide and fungicide. This can be applied with a brush just as the whitewash is applied, and it will be far more effective in destroying insects and germs of fungous diseases and will be far better for the trees."

The Greatest in the Union.

Superintendent Heeter, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., who has just started on his work as head of the Pittsburg school system, in a recent address declared the Pennsylvania School Code "The most comprehensive, the most modern, and the most practical of any public school measure that has ever been enacted in any commonwealth in the Union."

A Health Hint.

Eat three simple meals a day and masticate each bite of food thoroughly. Give up snacks between meals and late suppers. Seventy per cent of the ill health people suffer from is due to neglect of hygienic principle.

Take exercise every day equivalent to three or four miles walking, whatever the weather may be like. When outdoor exercise cannot for some good reason be obtained practice physical exercises twice a day.

Breathe fresh air day and night. No one can keep well who sleeps with closed windows, lives in stuffy rooms and goes in fear of drafts.

If you have got into the habit of irregular hours of sleep try the 10:30 bedtime plan as a routine measure. It cannot be invariably followed perhaps, but one late night could be made up for by an earlier bedtime the evening after. People who work hard and live strenuously need especially to make a good health resolution regarding their sleep. Even though you feel no ill effects for the time being from curtailing your sleep two or three hours a night you will have to pay in the end. The human organism can do without sleep for a time, but it is like a man drawing on his capital. Nervous energy has its limits like everything else.

Practice moderation in all things, regulate your amusements after a rational plan and stick to any resolution you make.

The last health resolution is psychial as much as physical. Determine to keep cheerful. Make up your mind you are going to be better, healthier and happier, whatever your prospects may be. Happiness is as much a matter of habit as of temperament, and it has very little to do with material success. By following the health resolutions enumerated you will be happier because you will be healthier. Make up your mind to be cheerful, to look on the bright side of things, to throw off despondency and depression before they get a grip on you and you formulate a cycle of good health, contentment and good will. Such health resolutions strengthen the will and make for character building and success.

Road Money For Counties.

Attorney General John C. Bell has given an opinion to Joseph W. Hunter, deputy state highway commissioner, in which he holds that money repaid to the state for advances made on behalf of counties, townships and boroughs for road construction under the act of 1905 goes into the original fund of the Highway Department.

"In my opinion," says the attorney general, "the amounts paid into the state treasury by counties, townships and boroughs, under contracts made or awarded prior to the passage of the act of May 31, 1911, which amounts have not been reapportioned to the several counties, are now available to be reapportioned and used in payment for contracts such as the one hereinbefore referred to."

The opinion will make avaiiable between $450,000 and $500,000, which will be divided among counties.

Centre County Republicans will determine at the primaries on Saturday whether they favor a united party and progress or a disrupted party and no results for this congressional district in the next two years. On such an issue no loyal Republican need hesitate.

The sincere friends of Roosevelt in Rush township are very properly paying no attention to the postal card campaign, manipulated from Pittsburg in the interest of the two slated Roosevelt candidates for State delegates in Centre County. William Wood, whose home is in Rush township, and who is only a sincere advocate of Roosevelt, is a high type of citizen who deserves and will no doubt receive loyal support among his home people in the township. Had the indorsement by the Pittsburg agency of the Roosevelt movement of two candidates for State delegates in Centre County been governed by a desire to recognize true principle and worth Mr. Wood would have undoubtedly been accorded a place on the slate. The thing for the Roosevelt supporters in Rush township to do is to rebuke the slate-makers by unitedly turning in for Mr. Wood and give him a big complimentary vote. There are some Roosevelt candidates in the field who are playing a political game. Mr. Wood is not that type of man. He believes in and therefore is not trying to use Roosevelt to accomplish a selfish purpose.

In asking for a renomination Congressman Patton is only asking the same courtesy accorded his predecessors. If Mr. Patton's opponent for the nomination were now in Congress he would be the first person to be asking you to help him secure a second term.

HUNTERS LICENSE BILL.

On another page we print the complete text of a bill proposing a $1 license of hunters in Pennsylvania. The bill will be introduced in the next Legislature. In order that it may be fully understood in advance we devote the space to presenting it in its entirety.

Of course, the purpose of the bill is to secure revenue. It means that every hunter, before he may hunt, will have to pay over $1 for the privilege. The things that are free are becoming fewer each year. Let us hold onto the few tnings remaining. It is our belief that the proposed bill should be smashed to smithereens when it comes before the next Legislature. It has many beautiful and high-sounding phrases, but when disrobed of all its fine garments the bill simply means that a $1 license will give better hunting for a few and no hunting at all for a great many others who are made of the same clay but unfortunately not blessed with riches.

Numerous Assurances.

William T. DeHaas, who is opposing Mr. Patton for the Republican nomination for Congress, is giving assurances as to where he stands.

Mr. DeHaas has personally assured Senator Penrose within the last few weeks that he "is a regular of the regulars."

Through the newspaper that is for Taft in the parlor and for Roosevelt in the kitchen Mr. DeHaas has assured the voters of Centre County that he is a "Progressive."

In McKean County Mr. DeHaas is for Roosevelt.

In Centre County Mr. DeHaas is for Taft and Roosevelt.

Congressman Patton has but one platform. He stands for what is for the best for all the people in the Twenty-first congressional district.

To The Public.

I desire you to say, Mr. Editor, that if elected as a delegate to the Republican State Convention, I will stand for the re-nomination of President Taft as our National Leader, all rumors to the contrary (for political effect) notwithstanding.

Respectfully,
LEVI SYMMONDS.

Bellefonte, Pa., April 9, 1912.

Congressman Patton stands for a united and harmonious Republican party. Republicans who want a united and harmonious party will stand by Congressman Patton.

Vote for Gleason and Swoope for National Delegates and for Kurtz and Hurley for State Delegates.

"Life is an uncertain element, but no more so than politics. There is no man living wise enough to peep into the future and foretell what will happen tomorrow, much less what will take place during the many weeks before the National Republican Convention will be held. Thoughtful voters cannot help but recognize the absurdity of choosing candidates so far in advance.

"Suppose, Republican voters, that there should be a deadlock in the Chicago convention; that one, or both, of the candidates now in the public eye should retire; that party harmony should require the nomination of a "dark horse"; that death should cause a change of plans.

"Suppose anything possible which your mind can picture. Then reflect. Would you in such an emergency have your delegates tied to their chairs with binding instructions to keep voting for a pledged candidate like a pair of messenger boys?

"No? Then send to the convention men who have the intelligence to act in any emergency.

"Send the above-named unhampered candidates and rest assured that the party as well as the country will be well served."

$150,000 CIVIL WAR PICTURES FOR THE PEOPLE

Reproductions of Brady's Famous Photographs Ready For Distribution.

A history of the Civil War, profusely illustrated with reproductions of the $150,000 Brady War Photographs, "taken on the spot," is being distributed to its readers by The Pittsburg Dispatch. The work is divided into 16 parts—one part being furnished each week for only 10 cents with a coupon cut from The Sunday Dispatch. (If to be sent by mail, 13 cents and a coupon.)

The first coupon was printed April 7, and the distribution of part one began Monday, April 8.

The second coupon (for part 2) will be printed Sunday, April 14, and distribution of part 2 will began Monday, April 15, and so on until the distribution of the 16 parts is completed. To accommodate those who did not have an opportunity to get coupon of April 7, part one will be supplied for the same price to any one who presents this article instead.

The regular coupon from The Sunday Dispatch will be required for all sections after No. 1.

The famous Brady War Pictures alone are worth the price. The work is highly educational and a set should be in every American home. Don't miss this wonderful work. Remember, it costs only 10 cents a part (13 cents by mail,) and a coupon clipped from The Sunday Dispatch.

For further details see The Pittsburg Dispatch.

A State Fair Project.

It is regarded as possible, by the people of Harrisburg, that their city's park committee which manages the various sports may develop a project for a State fair. Plans are being considered for the erection of an exhibition hall, and the next Legislature will likely consider the proposed State fair.

Two sites for the hall are being considered by the business men who are showing much interest in the projection, one on the island and the other in the upper end of the city.

A Siamese Twin Trout.

The editor of the Lock Haven Democrat announces that he recently received from Robert R. Welsh, who conducts the Spring Creek fishery, at Keating Summit, a curiosity in the shape of a Siamese twin trout fry, with two heads and two bodies and but one tail. The fry was enclosed in a small bottle of water. Mr. Welsh explained that the fry was hatched from a double-yoke egg in January. He added the explanation that double fish, such as that in the bottle, never get large.

Chosen Physical Directress.

Miss Mary Boyce, of Clearfield, accepted a position as Physical Directress of the Clarion State Normal School. She is well and favorably known in Centre County and is regarded as especially well qualified for the position.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitution disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Disgraceful Conditions.

Reports received by the State Board of Education indicate a disgraceful condition in many of the sanitaries and outbuildings connected with rural schools. A campaign will be waged against these untoward conditions. It is the testimony of teachers and superintendents that the average out-houses constitute the most demoralizing influences in the community. A reform in the construction and care of these buildings is urgently demanded.

Severe Test for Men.

There will be mighty few weddings in this country when the National Mothers' Protective Association branches out. The N. M. P. A. has been organized in New York and each mother will refuse to let her daughter marry a man—

If he smokes.
If he drinks.
If he is profane.
If he is vulgar.
If he fails to attend church.

Old Coins From Ancient House.

Remodeling the old building on her farm in Upper Providence, near Rogersford, Pa., Mrs. A. Francis found, among other old coins, these: One each, silver half dollar, date 2817; 5-cent piece, 1833, half-dime, 1852; 3-cent piece, 1873; two eagle pennies, 1857-8; seven older copper pennies, 1822-51, and three half-cents, 1932-4-5.

A Suffragette Song.

Sing this to the tune of "Comin' Thro the Rye."

"If a body pays the taxes,
Surely you'll agree,
That a body earns the franchise
Whether he or she."

Levi Symmonds, of Bellefonte, one of the seven candidates for delegate to the Republican State convention, informs us that he was until recently for Roosevelt, but that he has since changed his mind.

Correspondence.

Unionville

Miss Mary Turner, of Philipsburg, spent Sunday with her parents here.

Mrs. P. J. Loughry, of Philadelphia, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Alexander.

We are sorry to note that William Alexander, who has been critically ill all winter, is no better. His son, James, spent Sunday here with him.

Boyd A. Stere, who has been confined to his home with the measles, is able to again be about.

The Free Methodists held their quarterly meeting here over Sabbath. District Elder Rev. Mr. Hill presided.

It is a genuine pleasure to have our old neighbor, Thomas Lambert, again with us. He has been away all winter.

We are glad to be able to note that Mrs. Lenna Lonsberry, who has been threatened with appendicitis, is feeling very much better and is able to be about.

Joseph Stere, Joseph Resides and Patterson Holt started to work for P. J. McDonnell last week. On account of the severe winter the track is in bad shape and these men will likely have steady work all summer.

Admitted to Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Zehro, of Clarence, was on Tuesday admitted to the Lock Haven hospital for treatment.

A vote for Patton for Congress means that you as a loyal Republican are standing by the time-honored precedent of giving a good representative a second term.

A Feat With the Feet.

Place a cork upon the floor. Measure four lengths of your foot from it and, standing at this distance, attempt with one foot to kick the cork over and recover position (both feet together) so that the foot that does the kicking does not touch the floor till it has returned to its mate. The efforts of any one trying to maintain an equilibrium in performing this stunt will arouse considerable mirth.—Woman's World.

That Held Him.

A Yankee clinched his heated argument with an Englishman as to the relative size of the Thames and Mississippi by saying:

"Why, look here, mister, there ain't enough water in the whole of the Thames to make a gargle for the mouth of the Mississippi."

Graveyard Marriages.

A strange custom prevails among a certain tribe in the Caucasus. When a single young man dies some one calls upon a bereaved parent who has carried to the grave a marriageable daughter in the course of a year and says: "Your son is sure to want a wife. I'll give you my daughter, and you shall deliver to me the marriage portion in return." A friendly offer of this description is never rejected, and the two parties soon come to terms as to the amount of the dowry, which varies according to the advantages possessed by the girl in her lifetime. Cases have been known where the young man's father has given as much as thirty cows to secure a dead wife for his dead son.

The Touch Courteous.

"I want to see you tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on something important."

"What do you want to see me then for?"

"I want to pay you the $5 I am going to touch you for now."—New York American.

Saw a Risk.

Clerk—I'm afraid I can't let you let you have that drug, sir. Customer—Why not? Do I look like a man who would kill himself? Clerk—Well, I wouldn't go so far as to say that, sir; but if I looked like you I should be tempted.—Washington Star.

On the East coast of Florida in Palm Beach County, is the most beautiful spot on earth, and is as healthful as it is beautiful—That's Palm Beach.

Just this side is Palm City Farms, the most fertile soil in Florida, consisting of a rich dark loamy soil, underlaid with marl and clay, and in the Banner County, in producing a larger yield, per acre, by 30%, than any other County in the State, and gives larger returns, per acre than the States of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Ohio combined. The yield is $600 per acre, in three months after planting eggplants, tomatoes or peppers, and $200 per acre from potatoes in 100 days following the above mentioned crops, on same ground. You don't have to peddle, vegetable agents come to you to buy. Ten acres yield $8000 if properly cultivated, in six months.

Health is a subject that is foremost with every human being. Palm City Farms is the Mecca! All that makes life one sweet dream is there. The conditions conducive to disease are absent—no extreme heat or cold. Balmy breezes from the West bring odors of resinous pines. Prevailing South-East winds bring the soft fresh air over the land, giving life and vigor, as your cheeks feel the gentle glow of a radiant sunshine all the year round. If you want a farm or home like that, it is yours for $50.00 per acre, $10.00 per month, no interest, no taxes, and a free town lot in Palm City, on an elevation overlooking and commanding a magnificent view of the beautiful St. Lucie river, a deep salt water stream, half a mile wide, abounding in fish of great variety. Why stay North, work like a slave and freeze half the year, when you can have perpetual Spring in a Palm City Farms home.

Resolutions of Respect.

A special meeting of the Centre County Association of Philadelphia, was held on Saturday, March 30, 1912. It was voted to extend to the bereaved and sorrow stricken family of the late Charles McCafferty the sympathy of the entire association. Mr. McCafferty passed away very suddenly on Monday, March 25, 1912. He was the oldest member, had been a director of the association for a number of years and was always interested in everything that concerned its welfare.

Another sudden death that took place quite recently among the members of the Centre County Associatien was that of Thomas Miller Murray, formerly of Milesburg, a grandson of the late Sheriff John Hall. The sympathy of association is extended also to the brothers and friends of this family.

TAFT INSISTS ON AID TO FARMERS

Says Department of Agriculture Work Must Go On.

LABORS FOR CONSERVATION.

Farreaching Legislation Administered by Scientists of Rank Brings Good Results to Tillers of Soil—Food and Drugs Act Upheld to the Letter.

In his inaugural address President Taft called attention to the deficit then existing in the revenues and the consequent necessity for rigid economy in expenditures. However, the president singled out the department of agriculture as an exception. He said, to quote his exact words, "In the department of agriculture the use of scientific experiments on a large scale, and the spread of information derived from them for the improvement of general agriculture must go on." This view the president has steadily maintained and repeatedly has urged appropriations for the work of the department.

In his comprehensive message on conservation President Taft said, "The feature that transcends all others, including woods, waters, minerals, is the soil of the country," and that all means at the government's disposal should be used to conserve the soils, adding, "a work of the utmost importance to inform and instruct the public on this chief branch of the conservation of our resources is being carried on successfully in the department of agriculture."

Reports made recently to Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture by the heads of his bureaus justify this solicitude on the part of the president for the department. In calling for these reports the secretary asked that they be brief and that they mention notable achievements of the last five years only, inasmuch as that period is really the period of fruition in the department, the period during which, owing to the broad foundations previously laid by the training and grouping of many corps of scientific men, by securing farreaching legislation, by gathering together masses of statistics and other information, by providing scientific and other equipment, it has been possible to produce most marvelous results for the common good of the people.

Taft For Conservation.

In his conservation message President Taft emphasized the importance of the maintenance of the forests and urged their scientific treatment "so that they shall be made to yield a large return in timber without really reducing the supply," and in other messages he pointed out the necessity of reforestation. In accordance with these views much available work has been done in protecting the national forests and by researches in the laboratory of the department at Madison, Wis., and in the past five years the work of reforesting burned over areas has proceeded at the rate of 15,000 to 30,000 acres a year. The department takes justifiable pride in its forest work, considering the administration of 100,000,000 acres of land protected and managed for the public benefit a great achievement.

Since Jan. 1, 1907, when the food and drugs act went into effect, more has been done to provide a good, clean food supply than in all the preceding life of the nation. A wonderful change has also been effected in the character of the drugs on sale. The department has a trained force of inspectors and chemists doing excellent work in all parts of the country in behalf of pure foods and pure drugs. This salutary law, however, needs amendment, as the supreme court held in May, 1911, that its provisions, to quote President Taft's words in his vigorous message to congress a month later, "do not cover the knowingly false labeling of nostrums as to curative effect." The president added: "An evil which menaces the general health of the people strikes at the life of the nation. In my opinion the sale of dangerously adulterated drugs * * * constitutes such an evil and warrants me in calling the matter to the attention of the congress."

Work of Soil Mapping.

Of importance to the farmer has been the work carried on in the past five years of soil mapping and classification, so that now the area included is 407,000 square miles, or nearly 41,000,000 acres. The value of this work is incalculable.

Disseminating the valuable information acquired by the department has proved a wonderful work. Practically 200,000,000 publications have been distributed since Secretary Wilson assumed control of the department, and more than half (103,598,100) of that number have been distributed within the past five years.

Other work accomplished by the department includes a comprehensive system of weather warnings and forecasts, the meat inspection service in which 2,500 experts are employed, who see that every pound of meat sent interstate is fit for human food, protection of live stock, the checking of rodent pests, the destruction of noxious insects, the conservation of water supplies, the building and care of public roads and the policy for better farm houses, so that every dollar expended in the prosecution of this work in its numerous phases has brought back a hundred fold to the people.

The Vacuous Life.

People without any form of religion, without superstition, devoid of any thought of the future state, have been found in the interior forests of Sumatra, according to Dr. Wilhelm Volz, the geologist of the University of Breslau, who made extensive journeys though the island. There he found the Kubus, as he named them, who are scarcely to be distinguished from the small manlike ape of the Indo-Malayan countries. They are wanderers through the forest seeking food. They have no property. They are not hunters, but simply collectors. They seek merely sufficient nuts, fruits and other edible growths to keep them alive. The Kubus wage very little warfare upon the small amount of animal life in their silent and somber land. The only notion he could get from them of a difference between a live and a dead person was that the dead do not breathe. He infers that they are immeasurably inferior to the paleolithic man of Europe who fashioned tools and hunted big game with his flint tipped arrow and knife. Intellectual atrophy is the result of the Kubus' environment. The words they know are almost as few as the ideas they try to express.—Chicago News.

Golf and a Prince.

"Golf has its humors," said a champion player. "And this struck me particularly in a conversation at a golf club that I once had with a Persian prince. The prince, as he sat on the club piazza watching the various champions drive off, drawled:

"'I don't see very much in golf. No object is to be gained by the depositing of a white ball in a subterranean cavity, and if any object were to be gained the shortest and surest method would surely be to carry the ball in the hand from cavity to cavity.'

"'But, prince,' I said, 'the difficulty of getting the ball into the cavities, as you call them, is what constitutes the attraction of the game.'

"'The difficulty constitutes the attraction, eh? The prince frowned. 'Well,' he went on, 'it would be more difficult to shave with a coal shovel than a razor, but I don't think many men are tempted on that account to remove their beards each morning in that way.'"—Exchange.

Undertakers.

In England in 1614 undertakers were men of influence who undertook for a consideration to get such persons returned to parliament as would prove submissive to the royal will of King James I. The three chief undertakers of 1614 were Lords Bacon, Somerset and Neville. They undertook to bribe the chief speakers and men of influence in parliament that year over to the side of the king, with but partial success. Then there were undertakers in Ireland in 1608. They were English and Scotch colonists sent to north Ireland and were each allotted 2,000 acres of land. They were men of capital and undertook to pay a mark a year for every six acres and to admit no recusant for tenants; hence the name as applied to them. But neither the histories nor the dictionaries give any reason for calling the men who bury our dead undertakers.

Granite Telegraph Poles.

The great abundance of granite rocks and the lack of timber in the southern part of Switzerland have led to the employment of the former for purposes usually filled by the latter. Thus in many sections of the southern country the fences are of granite instead of wood, the supports for the grapevines are granite posts, and pavements, etc., are of granite. Perhaps the most striking departure from the ordinary, however, is the use of granite pillars in place of the usual wooden telegraph, telephone and electric power transmission poles. Near Lake Como and Lake Maggiore the old highroads originally constructed by the Romans are fringed with granite pillars eighteen feet high carrying telegraph wires.—Popular Mechanics.

Where Gannets Swarm.

One of the most remarkable sights in the world is Bird island, in South Africa, for the reason that during some months of the year it is literally covered with gannets. Not a foot of ground is to be seen anywhere. Day after day thousands of gannets strut around, and they are so close to each other that the whole island seems actually alive. Those who have seen this sight say that it is one which can never be forgotten.

A Case of Arbitration.

A rat and a weasel found an egg. They arbitrated about it. A cat was the arbitrator. He promptly awarded the egg to the rat. The rat ate the egg. The cat then ate the rat. The cat believes in arbitration. The rat doesn't.—Japan Musashino.

TAFT MAKES GOOD LABOR PLEDGES

Administration's Record Squares With Its Promises.

MANY NEW LAWS ENACTED.

Postal Savings Banks, Workmen's Compensation and Employers' Liability Laws Passed—Eight Hour Law Upheld—Labor Recognized on Commissions.

From the day three years ago when it placed its interests in the keeping of William Howard Taft to this hour labor has critically scanned his every act, and with discriminating mind it is judging him as one who, without clamor or demonstration, has kept the faith. On Sept. 9, 1908, Theodore Roosevelt then president of the United States wrote a letter to Conrad Kohrs on the issues of the campaign and, addressing himself to the laboring men, said:

"If there is one body of men more than another whose support I feel I have a right to challenge on behalf of Secretary Taft it is the body of wage workers of the country. A stancher friend, a fairer and truer representative they cannot find within the borders of the United States. He will do everything in his power for them except to do that which is wrong. He will do wrong for no man and therefore can be trusted by all men."

Mr. Taft Labor's Friend.

The workingmen of the country judged Mr. Taft in 1908 by a record of twenty-seven years as a statesman, administrator of national affairs and presidential adviser, and they helped to give him the magnificent majority which put him in the White House. During the three years he has been president his excellent record has been maintained so splendidly that the laboring men have been confirmed in the belief that they never had a better friend in the White House.

The establishment of the postal savings banks, which was recommended by President Taft, was one of the things that organized labor favored. The $16,000,000 now on deposit in these depositories represents the savings of the wage earners.

Taft's Personal Interest.

President Taft approved a law on May 30, 1908, to compensate workmen for injuries received while in the employ of the United States. After the passage of this act a number of workmen in the employ of the federal government were killed, and their families, not being familiar with the provisions of the law, failed to file affidavits within the specified time. The secretary of commerce and labor had no power to set aside the provision of the law and was therefore obliged to disapprove the claims.

The matter was taken up by the president, and he satisfied himself that justice was not being done to the families of the men who had been killed. He sent a special message to congress recommending that a general act be passed allowing all such claimants compensation if their claims were otherwise meritorious. This was an instance that proved the president to be broadminded and anxious to aid the workingmen in any way that he could.

An employers' liability act approved June 11, 1906, was on January 8, 1908, held to be unconstitutional. Another of this sort was passed on April 22, 1908, which as yet has not been tested in the courts. Through the efforts of the president a commission was appointed to make an investigation of the subject of "employers' liability and workmen's compensation."

Labor Men Appointed.

The report of the commission, the evidence taken before it and the draft of the bill prepared as a result of the findings of said commission have been transmitted to congress, accompanied by a special message by President Taft, in which he recommends the passage of the proposed measure. In their deliberations the members of the commission had the benefit of frequent consultations with the president. It is believed the act will stand the test of constitutionality.

In order that the commission might have the benefit of the experience of a practical man President Taft appointed as one of its members Daniel L. Cease, the editor of the Railroad Trainmen's Journal, the official organ of the railroad trainmen. Mr. Cease has devoted the best years of his useful life to the cause of labor. The president also appointed experienced labor men as inspectors under the locomotive boiler inspection law. They were John F. Ensign of Colorado and Frank McManamy of Oregon for chief inspector and assistant chief inspector respectively.

The defects in the present eight hour law have not escaped the attention of President Taft. He has recommended to congress amendments which will make it really effective by "providing that public works shall be construed to include not only buildings and works upon public grounds, but also ships' armor and large guns when manufactured in private yards or factories."

Worked an Old Trick.

One of the solons under the gilt dome of the Massachusetts statehouse swears this happened to him. Have you heard it—back in the rattle days?

"Six of us went down on the cape duck shooting soon after the season opened. I was not much of a shooter, so the gang thought they would put one over on me and assigned me to a blind where no ducks ever were known to go and went away and left me there. From an hour before sunrise until late afternoon I stuck to the job, but nary a quack.

"That night at the table I absentmindedly cut open a shell and was surprised at the number of small shot it contained. After more or less airing of opinions on projectiles from each 'expert' a pool was made up on the number. Fifty bucks—ten a head—is not a bad day's work, I think. Eh? How? What do you suppose I was doing for twelve hours in that blind?"

And yet they wonder at some of the bills that get by the sacred codfish.—Boston Traveler.

Not Their Fault.

An American woman who resided for some years in Mexico had an odd experience with an earthquake. She was the mother of two lively small sons. One day they had been especially obstreperous and did not grow quieter as the time for her siesta and theirs approached. After rousing her from her nap two or three times by their antics she gave them fair warning that if there was any further commotion severe punishment would result. Again she dropped off into sleep. Suddenly she found herself awake and on her feet with sounds of banging still in her ears and the room quivering as if from the fall of a heavy piece of furniture. The boys, scared and guilty looking, were in the doorway. She seized the nearer, reversed him and had him half spanked before the excited protests of his brother penetrated to her brain through his anguished howls. Then she became aware that she was spanking him for an earthquake.—New York Herald.

Written on Glass.

Miss Harriet Auber's beautiful lines, "Our Blessed Redeemer, Ere He Breathed," were written by the authoress on a windowpane in her house at Hoddesdon. A dealer in curios tried to purchase this interesting and peculiar manuscript from the owner of the house after the death of Miss Auber in 1862, but he was unsuccessful. The pane of glass was subsequently stolen, and it has never since been found or its fate discovered.

Centuries ago Theodulph, bishop of Orleans, while in prison at Metz composed the hymn, "All Glory, Laud and Honor," which he wrote on the window of his cell. As the usual Palm Sunday procession passed through the town the emperor heard sounds of singing proceeding from the prison. He thereupon liberated the bishop, whose hymn was afterward regularly used on each succeeding Palm Sunday as a processional, the choir taking up each quatrain and the public joining in singing the chorus.

High Bridge.

High bridge, in New York, was completed in 1842 and at that time was considered one of the world's marvels of bridge building. It may be added that it still is looked upon by bridge builders as a model of its kind. This great stone bridge was built to bring water into the city from the Croton river valley after the great dam was thrown across it forty miles above Manhattan. The aqueduct, cut part way through solid rock and part way continued by tunnel, had to be brought across the Harlem, and the solution of this engineering problem was in High bridge.

His Rule In Danger.

The tough looking citizen who had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment at hard labor for beating up his wife appealed to the court with tears in his voice.

"Have a little pity, judge," he whimpered. "I speak to you as man to man. If you send me up for a thing like that I'll never be able to maintain discipline in my family again."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Way the Dutch Have.

The Dutch have a delightfully original way of collecting their taxes. If after the notice has been given the money is not sent the authorities place one or two hungry militiamen in the house, to be lodged and maintained at the expense of the defaulter until the amount of the tax is paid.

Two Views of It.

"What do you think of married life?" asked the henpecked man, addressing the youthful bridegroom.

"Bliss is no name for it," said the young husband enthusiastically.

"You are right," said the henpecked one gloomily. "Bliss is no name for it."

LICENSE FOR ALL HUNTERS

Draft of $1 Resident Measure is Now Completed

MEETS APPROVAL OF FARMERS

Sportsmen's Committee Is Now Pledging Legislative Candidates All Over the State to Support of Plan to Identify Disorderly Element, Pay Bounties and Furnish Funds to Propagate Game.

Pittsburg—The committee of sportsmen appointed by organizations all over the state has completed the draft of the "Resident Hunters' License" bill, which will be introduced in the next Legislature, and copies of the measure have been forwarded to sportsmen in the various counties of the commonwealth. The bill will be submitted to legislative candidates in the various assembly and senatorial districts and the candidates asked to pledge their support for the measure, if elected as senators or legislators.

In the Western end of the state most of the candidates have already been seen and pledged their support to the bill.

The committee in charge of the drafting of the bill was composed of E. K. Morse, Thomas Liggett, E. J. Taylor, Charles Painter and R. R. Bennett of Pittsburgh; H. F. Ward of Washington and F. M. Eames of Philadelphia, and before the last Legislature they made a strong but belated fight for the bill.

Members of the committee submitted drafts of the bill to the State Grange and other organizations of farmers and in its present form it represents a measure that is said to be satisfactory to the rural voters.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE ACT.

The charge for the license to hunt is to be $1 per year;

The farmer, his children and his tenants are not required to take out licenses to hunt on the property they own or rent;

Any resident of the state, who is a citizen of the United States, shall be eligible to secure a license;

Licenses shall be issued by the prothonotary of each county at $1, or can be issued by justices of the peace at an additional cost of 25 cents;

The penalty is $20 fine for each day of hunting without a license;

Hunters must show licenses to any peace officer, game warden, owner of lands they are traversing, or agents of the owner, on demand, and refusal to so show licenses shall be punishable by a fine of $20 for each offense;

Magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace shall have power of summary conviction for violations of the act, subject to the usual right of appeal to the courts;

All license fees collected to go to the State Treasurer, and "to be used solely for the purpose of wild bird and game protection, and for the purchase and propagation of game, and the payment of bounties;"

The Legislature shall, by separate enactment, appropriate the money so derived to the purposes above specified.

At least 50 per cent of the total revenue, or so much of this percentage as necessary, shall be used to pay bounties.

AN ACT.

For the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, requiring citizens of the United States residing within this state to procure a license before using guns for the purpose of hunting for any wild birds or animals protected by the laws of this Commonwealth, and providing penalties for the violation of its several provisions and the manner of proceeding to enforce compliance therewith, and providing for the disposition of the license fees, fines and penalties received.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same: That from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful for any person residing within this Commonwealth to hunt for wild birds or wild animals, protected by the laws of this Commonwealth, with firearms, or with a device of any kind propelling with force a leaden or metal pellet or bullet, or excepting in defense of person or property, to shoot at, or kill, or pursue with intent to take, kill or wound any of such wild birds or wild animals found within this Commonwealth, without first securing a license to so do in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Section 2. Whenever the word "person" is used in this act such word shall be taken to include every person. All words or terms in this act, which refer to persons in the singular number, shall be taken to include the plural number. All words of the plural number shall include the singular number, and all words of the masculine gender shall be taken to include the feminine gender.

Section 3. For the purposes of this act any person born in the United States of America, or any person fully naturalized under the laws of the United States, or the son of any such naturalized person under the age of twenty-one years, who has been a bona fide resident of this Commonwealth for a period of thirty days next preceding his application, shall be entitled to the license herein referred to upon the further fulfillment of the requirements of this act.

Section 4. Each and every resident of this Commonwealth, such resident being a citizen of the United States, upon application made verbally or in writing to any prothonotary within the Commonwealth, and the presentation of proof that he is a citizen of the United States and a bona fide resident of this Commonwealth under the requirements of this act, and the payment to said prothonotary of one dollar, shall be entitled to what is herein designated as a "Resident Hunter's License," which shall be issued on a form prepared and supplied by the Board of Game Commissioners at the cost of the Commonwealth. Such license shall bear a description of the person applying for the same, with the date of its issue, and shall authorize the person named therein to use legal firearms, for the purpose of hunting and killing any of the wild animals or game birds protected by the laws of this Commonwealth, under the restrictions and requirements of existing laws during that year the date of which is inscribed thereon. Said certificates shall become void upon the thirty-first day of December next following the date of issue. Provided; That it shall be lawful under the provisions of this act for any justice of the peace within this Commonwealth, who has qualified therefore by having applied to the prothonotary of the county in which he is located and having received and receipted for the necessary blanks to issue a resident hunter's license on like conditions and in like manner as prescribed for the issuance of license by any prothonotary, upon payment of twenty-five cents to said justice by the licensee, in addition to the one dollar prescribed as the cost of said license, said twenty-five cents to be retained by said justice of the peace as his fee, for the issuance of said license, and reporting the same, and remitting payment therefore to the prothonotary of the county in which said justice of the peace is located. Such report and remittance to be made and done by said justice of the peace within twenty-four hours after the issuance of said license by him. Whereupon said prothonotary shall make a record of and otherwise treat said license as though it had been issued from his office, except that he shall also note upon his record the name of the justice issuing the license. Every justice of the peace shall deliver the book or books from which he has issued licenses, together with the stubs therein properly filled and showing the names of licensees to the prothonotary of the county in which he is located, not later than the fifteenth day of January next following the year for which he has issued such licenses and shall be unqualified to issue further licenses until after he has done so.

Section 5. Any citizen of the United States, resident within this Commonwealth, who shall excepting in defense of person or property attempt, through the use of a gun or mechanical device before described in this act, to hunt for, or to take or wound or kill any of the wild birds or animals protected by the laws of this Commonwealth, without first being possessed of a "Resident Hunters' License" lawfully issued to him in his name, shall be liable to a penalty of twenty dollars for each offense, and each day upon which said gun or device is used shall be considered a distinct and separate offense. Provided: That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent any citizen of the United States, residing within this Commonwealth, from having guns in his home or from using such gun in defense of either person or property or from shooting at targets or at anything not protected by the laws of the Commonwealth. Provided also; That any bona fide owner of lands in this Commonwealth or the bona fide lessee of lands within the Commonwealth such person being a citizen of the United States and a resident of this Commonwealth, and the child of such owner or lessee shall, during the open season for game in the Commonwealth, have the right to hunt game upon the land so owned or leased without securing the license prescribed by this act.

Section 6. For the purpose of this act the fact that any person shall be found in possession of a gun or mechanical device of any description possessing the power to propel with force a leaden or metal bullet or pellet either in the fields, in the forest, or on the waters of this Commonwealth, shall be considered prima facie evidence that such person is hunting and shall render him liable to display his "Resident Hunter's License" upon demand made by any officer of this Commonwealth, whose duty it is to protect the game and wild birds of the Commonwealth, or upon demand made by any owner of lands, or the bona fide lessee of lands within this Commonwealth, or upon demand made by any employe or representative of the before-named owner or lessee upon whose lands such person may be found hunting, and for failure to comply with such request such person so neglecting or refusing to display his "Resident Hunter's License" shall, upon conviction, be liable to a penalty of twenty dollars; and the fact that any person may be found upon the highways of the Commonwealth in possession of a gun and the dead body of any bird or animal protected by the laws of this Commonwealth, shall be considered prima facie evidence that such person is hunting and such person shall, upon demand made by any officer of the Commonwealth, whose duty it is to protect the wild birds or game of the State, be required to display his "Resident Hunter's License" and for refusing to do so shall, upon conviction, be liable to a penalty of twenty dollars. Provided; That all penalties collected for violation of any of the provisions of this section shall belong to the Commonwealth.

Section 7. Each and every prothonotary of this Commonwealth shall keep in a book to be supplied by the Board of Game Commissioners at the cost of the Commonwealth, a correct and complete record of all "Resident Hunter's Licenses" issued by him. Such book shall be in the form of an alphabetical index and it shall be the duty of each prothonotary to have entered therein at the close of each week, the name and place of residence of each individual to whom a license shall have been issued during that week; and this said index shall be open at any reasonable hour to the inspection of any officer of the Commonwealth, whose duty it is by law to protect the wild birds and game of the Commonwealth.

Section 8. Said prothonotaries are hereby authorized to retain for services rendered the sum of fifteen cents from the amount paid by each licensee, which amount shall be full compensation for services rendered by him in each case under the provisions of this act, and shall remit all balances arising from this source at least once a month to the State Treasurer for the use of the Commonwealth. Each prothonotary shall make his return to the State Treasurer upon a form to be supplied by the Board of Game Commissioners at the cost of the Commonwealth and shall in every instance forward a duplicate of such report to the Secretary of the Game Commission at Harrisburg.

Section 9. Any officer of the Commonwealth, whose duty it is to protect the wild birds or game of the Commonwealth, or to preserve the peace of the Commonwealth, shall have the right to arrest without warrant any person caught in the act of violating any provision of this act, or in a pursuit immediately following such violation, and to seize all guns, shooting paraphernalia, dogs, boats, decoys, or other appliances, used in violation of any provision of this act, also all wild birds or animals, game or otherwise, found either in possession or under immediate control of the suspected person, within this Commonwealth. All birds and animals or parts thereof not classed as game in this Commonwealth thus seized shall be held subject to the order of the Board of Game Commissioners. All guns, boats, decoys, dogs, game and shooting paraphernalia, seized when such arrest is made, shall be held subject to the determination of the proceedings instituted. Where the party accused is convicted, all game seized shall be forfeited to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and as soon as may be, shall be forwarded to the most convenient hospital for the use of the sick or injured therein. All guns, boats, decoys, dogs and shooting paraphernalia of every description thus seized shall be held subject to the payment of the penalty imposed and the costs of prosecution, and unless security be given, as required by section thirteen of this act, all such seized guns, dogs, boats, decoys and shooting paraphernalia shall be sold at public auction after advertising the same for five days by at least five public handbills, conspicuously posted in the city, borough or township wherein the conviction was secured. Any fund thus arising shall be applied: First, to the payment of costs of prosecution; then to the payment of the penalty imposed; and the remainder, if any, shall be returned to the owner of the property seized. Where game, dogs, boats, decoys or shooting paraphernalia of any description shall be seized and the owners thereof escape arrest, and refuse to present themselves and make claim to said property, all such game, after the lapse of three days after the seizure, shall be declared forfeited to the Commonwealth, and shall be sent to the most convenient hospital for the purposes before indicated in this section. All guns, dogs, boats, decoys and other shooting paraphernalia thus seized shall be held for a period of ten days, after which time if the owner there of fails to appear and defend himself against the charges made, such property of all description shall be sold in the manner prescribed for the sale of seized property after conviction, and the fund arising from such sale be applied as in the case of the sale after conviction. Provided; That the fact that imprisonment is suffered by any person convicted of violating any provision of this act, shall not prevent the sale of guns, dogs, boats, decoys or shooting paraphernalia of any description, held as the property of the imprisoned party, and the application of the fund thus realized to the payment of the costs and the penalty imposed.

Section 10. Each and every person resisting arrest for violation of any of the provisions of this act, or refusing to go with an officer after an arrest has been made, or interfering with an officer of this Commonwealth in the performance of his duty under the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, which penalty, when collected, shall be applied as are other penalties under the provisions of this act.

Section 11. Each and every magistrate, justice of the peace and alderman within this Commonwealth shall have the power of summary conviction in matters pertaining to violations of any of the provisions of this act. All sections for violations of any of the provisions of this act, excepting where the defendant is taken in the act of violating the law, or in a pursuit immediately following such violation, shall be commenced by affidavit made within one year after the date of such violation, and any magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace of this Commonwealth, on complaint made before him by affidavit of one or more persons of a violation of any of the provisions of this act by any person, is hereby authorized and required to issue his warrant under his hand and seal directed to any constable, police officer, game protector or any other officer of the Commonwealth, whose duty it is to protect the game and wild birds of the Commonwealth, and cause such person to be brought before him, such magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace, who shall hear the evidence and determine the guilt or innocence of the person accused; and if such person be convicted of the offense charged, he shall be sentenced to pay the full penalty prescribed by the section violated together with the costs of prosecution. All penalties thus recovered, in cases where the prosecutor is a salaried officer of the Commonwealth, shall be immediately surrendered by the court receiving the same to the prosecutor, who in turn, as soon as may be, shall forward or deliver such amount in full to the secretary of the Board of Game Commissioners at Harrisburg. Where any other than a salaried officer of the Commonwealth is the prosecutor, one-half of any penalty thus collected shall, except as provided for in section five of this act, belong to such prosecutor and shall be paid to him by the court receiving the same, and the remaining one-half shall be, as soon as the case is fully determined before him, forwarded by such magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace to the secretary of the Board of Game Commissioners at Harrisburg, together with a statement of the cause for which such money shall have been collected, the cost of which statement is hereby fixed at fifty cents, and made a part of the costs of prosecution, and it shall be the duty of said secretary of the Board of Game Commissioners to at least once a week, make return of moneys thus collected to the State Treasurer for the use of the Commonwealth. Each and every defendant, convicted on appeal before any court of quarter sessions of this Commonwealth, shall be sentenced to pay the penalty imposed by the section of this act violated or to undergo imprisonment in the common jail of the county for one day for each dollar of penalty imposed. Provided; That any person charged with violating any provisions of this act may sign an acknowledgment of the offense committed and pay to any duly appointed and commissioned game protector, deputy or special deputy game protector the penalty in full, as fixed by this act, together with the costs accruing to that date, and the printed receipt therefor, which shall, in every instance, bear the imprint of the seal of the Game Commission of Pennsylvania and the signature of its secretary, shall be evidence of full satisfaction of the offense committed.

Section 12. Whenever, because of the violation of any of the requirements of this act, any person shall be convicted for a first offense and a penalty be imposed and the defendant shall neglect or refuse to at once pay said amount together with the costs of prosecution in lawful money of the United States, he shall be committed to the common jail of the county in which the conviction is secured for a period of one day for each dollar of penalty imposed, unless he shall enter into good and sufficient recognizance to either pay said penalty and costs within a period of ten days after the date of said conviction, or to certiorari the proceedings under the forms of laws, or to carry the case to a higher court in appeal, as provided for by the laws of this Commonwealth relating to summary convictions. For the second, or any additional offense after the first offense, the defendant shall, in addition to the penalty prescribed for the first offense, suffer an imprisonment of one day in jail for each dollar of penalty imposed. Provided; That in every case of a conviction for violation of any of the provisions of this act, wherein the defendant suffers imprisonment in lieu of a cash payment of the penalty imposed, or fails to pay the costs of prosecution, all traps, guns, boats, decoys, shooting paraphernalia or other appliances, used in the violation of the law and found in his possession at the time of arrest, or proven to have been used in violation of law, shall be and they are hereby declared forfeited to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and shall be either destroyed or sold as the Board of Game Commissioners may consider best, and the money secured through such sale shall be applied by said Board: First, to the payment of the costs incurred, and the remainder, if any, be deposited with the State Treasurer for the use of the Commonwealth; the defendant being entitled for the first offense only to the credit of one day off his imprisonment for each dollar so deposited with the State Treasurer.

Section 13. All license fees collected under the provisions of this act and all fines and penalties belonging to the Commonwealth imposed and collected for violation of any of its provisions shall be paid to the State Treasurer as hereinbefore designated to be used solely for the purpose of wild bird and game protection and for the purchase and propagation of game under the supervision of the Game Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the payment of bounties under the provisions of law.

The several purposes to which the fund so received by the State Treasurer shall be applied to be clearly designated by an act of the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania, either in the general appropriation act, or by separate appropriation for the payment of bounties.

It being specifically provided that fifty per centum of any fund returned to the State Treasurer, through or because of the provisions of this act, or so much of said fifty per centum as may be needed, shall be applied by the Legislature at its biennial sessions to the payment of bounties, at the rate of one dollar for each weasel killed, one dollar for each mink killed, two dollars for each fox killed and four dollars for each wild cat killed, and such bounty upon other animals or birds as may hereafter have a bounty placed upon them by the Legislature of the State, such bounties to be paid upon proof of such killing as is now provided by law of this Commonwealth.

Section 14. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Office Lawyers.

"Office practice is what the average lawyer seeks for now," remarked an attorney, "and that is the business that makes the largest returns for the least waste of tissue. More money is made nowadays by keeping clients out of litigation and free from the dangers of the law's delay than by defending them, even successfully, in court. It is safe to say that there are some 6,000 lawyers who are making a very good living in New York from law business that rarely or never takes them into court and that there are a large number of lawyers who from their counsel work and directing great enterprises and corporations, advising and guiding wealthy clients, take in each year princely—yes, even fabulous—amounts."—Lawyers' Diary.

Romance of a Statue.

The statue of Charles I. which now stands in London was sold to a brazier during the commonwealth with the understanding that it should be broken up. The buyer, however, saw a chance to make money and buried it instead. To cover his action he made a large number of bronze knives and forks, which were eagerly bought by both royalists and Puritans as souvenirs. When the monarchy was restored to power the statue was dug up again and bought by the government to be placed in its present position, where it has remained since 1674.

Kate and Kite.

An English clergyman visiting this country was discussing the English accent.

"Our worst accent," he said, "is the cockney one—the one that turns, you know, 'make haste' into 'mike 'iste,' and so on.

"I once engaged two maidservants. One was a Devonian, the other a cockney. They were both named Catherine, but that fact caused no confusion in my household. I simply called the Devon girl Kate and the cockney Kite, and they always knew whom I was addressing."

Will Give $500 to Sick Readers of The Republican.

Indiana Scientist Who Originated the Now Famous "Home Treatment" Offers Large Package Free to Sick and Ailing.

In order that every reader of the Republican who needs treatment may have an opportunity to test this celebrated medicine, the now famous Indiana scientist has come to the front with an offer to give absolutely free a large proof package to five hundred readers of this paper to prove the wonderful claims which have been made for it. In making this offer the scientist said: "I know that there are many people who have been suffering for years with some chronic disease and many of them have spent large sums of money seeking a cure. I know that these people hesitate about investing money in medicine because they have despaired of ever getting well. Thouands have told me that story and many thousands of the same people have told me afterwards that my treatment had cured them after doctors and everything else had failed. I want to show these despairing people that all the newspaper talk about my treatment is absolutely true. I want to prove to a limited number—no matter what the disease, no matter how long they may have suffered, no matter how blue and discouraged—that my treatment really and actually does accomplish the wonderful results that have been reported."

People who suffer from Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, Stomach Trouble, Liver or Bowel Disorders, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Chronic Coughs, Weak Lungs, Lumbago, Piles, Urinary Disorders, Female Weaknesses of any kind, the weak, worn out, broken-down and despondent will be delighted at the effect of a few doses. This wonderful treatment creates a fine appetite and helps the digestive organs to carry on their functions as they should. It strengthens the kidneys, too, and drives rheumatism poisons from the blood as if by magic. That is why people who try it become so enthusiastic.

Any reader of the Republican who will try this extraordinary medicine that has created so much excitement by its cures can obtain absolutely free a liberal treatment by simply filling in the coupon below or writing a letter describing their case in their own words, if they prefer, and mailing it today to James W. Kidd, Fort Wayne, Indiana, No money need be sent and no charge of any kind will be made.

As this offer is limited, you should write at once, in order to be sure to receive your free treatment.

Two very pleasant callers at "The Republican" office last Friday were W. H. Twigg and Justice of the Peace J. W. Merryman, of Rush township. Mr. Twigg is an old friend, but this was Mr. Merryman's first visit to our office. Meeting the Squire in our office is no doubt much more delightful than meeting him officially in his own office. So, if the Squire is just as well satisfied, we will have all the calls at this end of the line.

On Monday evening, April 6th, a reception was held by Bellefonte Castle No. 357, Knights of the Golden Eagle, in their hall in the Eagle Block, which commemorated the 22nd anniversary of their institution. About 100 persons, including members, their wives and friends, surrounded the festal board, which was luxuriously spread for the occasion. Past Chief J. S. McCarger acquitted himself creditably as Toastmaster and responses were made by Past Chief S. D. Gettig, Past Chief L. H. Wian, Rev. C. W. Winey, Sir Knight A. C. Mingle, Past Chief J. M. Keichline, Noble Chief David A. Barlett, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Hazel, District Grand Templer of the Ladies of the Golden Eagle. Bailey's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

Mrs. John I. Markel Dead.

In the passing away of Mrs. Mary Jane, wife of John I. Markel, on April 3, at 11.30 o'clock, at her home on Main Street, State College, the life of one of the best women in the world was brought to a close. Her death was the culmination of an illness covering a period of over a year. As a mother, wife, friend and neighbor she had few equals and her death is deeply and sincerely mourned by a wide circle of admiring and affectionate friends. She knew that when she closed her eyes in eternal sleep it would be to open them to face her Maker, and she patiently and contentedly awaited the final summons. In her youth she became a member of the Lutheran church and remained true to its teachings to the last. She was a daughter of David and Mrs. Rossman, now of Pleasant Gap. She was born in Rebersburg a little over 55 years ago. Her death marks the first break in the family circle of eight. Two sisters and five brothers and the parents survive, as do also two daughters and two sons. Four children are dead. The surviving children are Mrs. J. A. Fortney and Mrs. W. H. Weaver, of Pine Grove Mills; Lee Markel, of State College, and Richard Markel, of Butler, Pa. Burial was made on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the new cemetery. Rev. J. S. Shultz officiated, assisted by Rev. S. J. Pittinger.
